

Looking at the News with Col. Hugh Clark

The best thing we have seen in the papers lately is that the Navajo Indian Council has expelled from the tribe ex-mayor Walker of New York and several Hollywood actors and actresses. The big chiefs indicated that they are "fed up on white men who get adopted into the tribe and then go about boasting that they are Indians." It was just such things that brought the granting of titles in Canada in to disrepute at one time. The Indians, however, must admit that they were careless in their selection even as the paleface is at times careless in his distribution of honors. They will, we hope, be more discriminating in future.

Give a man dictatorial power and he is sure to carry it to extremes, like Hitler who decrees that to make jests at him and his government is verboten. Thus does he remove one of the bulwarks of freedom. Democracy is gone once you take away from the electors the privilege of making fun of those they elect.

There is no doubt, no shadow of doubt, no possible doubt whatever that the Greek authorities tried to prevent Insull from getting out the way he did, but a friend suggests they should have engaged Dr. Banting to keep Insull in.

Although he is being given a free hand, signs are not wanting that Mr. Roosevelt does not carry with him the approval of many sane and sagacious Democrats as well as Republicans. We cannot see why he should. His policy is the very opposite to that which a prudent but distressed individual would adopt. That individual would not think for a moment that he could improve his position by issuing more notes of hand.

By the hocus-pocus of increasing the value of gold and decreasing the value of the dollar the President has of course, a means of "making money" that the individual does not possess, but that is only a flea-bite as compared with the total commitments. His policy, too, is directly contrary to the national policy pursued by the government of Great Britain, which is the same as that of the prudent but distressed individual aforesaid.

Veteran bonus-seekers in the United States argue that if they are given two billion dollars it will start a buying campaign that will be irresistible. It would be better still if they stole the money. The buying power would be greater because there would be no increase in paper money and therefore no decrease in its purchasing power.

Canadian finances should be in such liquid state that when bankers say they will advance sixty millions to the C. P. R. Co. if the government will guarantee the loan, the government can say "No, but if you will guarantee the loan we'll advance the money."

We are not to have lotteries in Canada countenanced by government except those that centre around a hole or prospective hole in the ground from which spring several million shares to be sold and resold to the public.

If the N.R.A. was advantageous to any class it was to labor and it was rather shabby of the automotive workers to throw monkey wrenches into the gearing by threatening to strike just when their industry was getting on its feet again. Mr. Roosevelt has been criticized for insisting upon fair hours and wages and it must have given him a shock to think that his recovery program was menaced by labor leaders demanding the recognition of their unions. A strike would have closed the Ford plants where the minimum wage is five dollars a day.

John Wilkes, the Radical agitator who caused riots in England over a century ago had the audacity afterwards to tell King George III that he (Wilkes) had never been a Wilkite. The Wilkites went farther than

Hear Gilbert McGregor On Douglas Social Credit

Meeting Organized by Local Study Group; Many Questions Answered

On Thursday night, April 5th, the local Douglas Study Group organized a public meeting at the Vulcan Theatre, which was addressed by Mr. Gilbert McGregor of Calgary. The theatre was fairly well filled, although the importance of the subject which is occupying the attention of the whole world should have crowded the theatre to overflowing. Mr. McGregor gave a most able and concise exposition of the main principles of the Douglas Theory.

He devoted considerable time first, to analyzing the defects of the present financial system, a clear understanding of which is absolutely essential. The essential point to remember in connection with the present financial system is that financial credit is based on the real credit, that is, the goods and services produced by the community and needed by the community. In other words, the community produces the real credit, the financial system produces the money credit, if you care to use the word money in its most elastic form, money credit being nothing more or less than figures on a piece of paper. When people realize this and that the right to grant or withhold this money credit depends, not on the people who produce the real credit, but rests with a private monopoly which has the power to tell the community whether or not it shall use the real credit it has produced, then we may expect to have a change made and evidence that this knowledge is growing at a great rate is quite apparent the world over. It is not a political issue, it is purely economic. Men of every political body are supporting Douglas in the economic issue.

Mr. McGregor's address cleared up many misconceptions. Numerous questions were asked and answered and the audience generally was in agreement that the lecturer faced every question fairly without any attempt to side-step the issue. Mr. G. M. Whicher, president of the local group, occupied the chair.

COMMUNICATION

Editor, Vulcan Advocate

Dear Sir:

I think it was Kipling who wrote: "It's Tommy this and it's Tommy that"—and well he might if he had witnessed what happened in Vulcan on Vimy Day.

A committee from the Canadian Legion arranged for a program to fit the occasion and brought a speaker down from Calgary. Everything was done so that the citizens and ex-soldiers of the town could fittingly pay tribute to those of the Canadian forces who took part in the great battle of Vimy Ridge, also to offer a prayer for those who are still on Vimy.

At 8 o'clock all was in readiness for the program, the artists and Capt Shaw, M.C., the speaker for the evening, waiting to carry on with the entertainment—but owing to there being only about twelve persons in the audience, it was decided to call off what would have been a very excellent program.

The reason for the people of Vulcan not turning out I do not know, but as one who fought from the beginning to the end of the war, I am ashamed to think that the British people have so far forgot themselves that they either do not care to remember that for which so many of their countrymen died, or else they are just indifferent to the misery and suffering of all men who fought so that the world might be free from war.

In these days when we have so much sentiment and prattle about peace and horrors of any future war, one would be led to think that people would be glad to gather together for the comfort, if nothing else, but no, nothing of the kind, they think only of themselves. So those who fought and were lucky enough to live must be content to belong to the forgotten generation, at least in Vulcan.

Yours very truly,

—One Red and Four Blue

John A. Smith, Vulcan Pioneer Dies at Valley

Resident in the Vulcan District for Twenty-four Years

A pioneer of the Vulcan district died in the person of John A. Smith at Turner Valley on Tuesday evening April 3rd, aged 76 years. He was one of the earliest settlers in this district, coming here in 1903 from the United States, and homesteading on land just four miles west of the present town. He resided here until 1927 when he purchased a ranch in the foothills west of Turner Valley.

Deceased has lived at his Turner Valley ranch since that time, making occasional trips to Vulcan to visit. He was born in Iowa in 1858, and in 1885 left with his parents for Oregon travelling by covered wagon with ox teams. He homesteaded at the age of 21, many years before he came to this district. In 1883 he was first married and after the death of his first wife, married the present Mrs. Smith who survives him. Besides his wife are surviving two daughters Mrs. Alma Schween, Turner Valley, and Mrs. G. Heuley of California; and three sons, Charles A. Smith, Turner Valley; Harry of Vulcan and Len, Black Diamond.

Pushing Development South End of Valley

All Oil Companies Busy With Spring Program

New locations are stirring with activity as spring opens up in the oil fields. Amongst the new undertakings is Carleton Royalties which is getting under way with cellar and derrick, to the northwest of the Highwood and the Hoffer Lundy. The fact that Robt. Wilkinson and Frank Elves are pushing the work, ensures quick action. Mr. Wilkinson, who (with other Calgary brokers associates) is connected particularly with Sterling Royalties has had striking success in developing the oil area. Century Royalties has been easily and successfully financed, and the rotary is now below 2450.

British Dominion has drilled to 250 feet. Richfield Royalties, with Frank Becker supervisor is now at a depth of more than 400 feet, using the same crew as brought in Anaconda 2.

The Longview well at a depth of 5000 feet is nearing Dalhousie sands. Drilling on section 21, is started by George Myers and George Wright who were behind the Pacalta project. Details for the completion of the Hoffer Lundy well in section 27 are not yet announced, and the well is now at 4300 feet.

Turner Valley Royalties, which is rigging up, is in charge of Roy Widney, veteran driller. It is located on the Brown lease where drilling has been found at shallow depth.

The Highwood Sarcee has drilled through lower Blairmore sands without an increase in the flow of crude, and the drilling continues into the limestone. It is estimated there is about 100 feet of Kootenay and 100 feet of Fernie to reach the limestone. The depth at present is well over 5200 feet. Safeguards have been taken to retain the crude oil flow, and production may later be taken from the crude level. There are hopes that naptha will be found in the limestone.

Spooner-Anaconda showed gas of between four and five million cubic feet in the Home sands at South Turner last week end.

Director well is approaching a 2600 foot level. The big rotary outfit of Boller, Sherman is being used.

At Connaught the derrick is up and cable tool equipment being installed. This is one and a quarter miles south east of Miracle 2.

Century is making record time, and is a quarter mile west of Anaconda 2. Publix is working on proven acreage a quarter of a mile south of Mar Jon-Freehold.

At Pekisko Hill, 13 1/2 inch casing is run to 120 feet to shut off surface water.

Royalite and Commonwealth Petroleum are negotiating for the purchase of the Commonwealth well by Royalite.

Strong disapproval of Hon. George Hoadley's medical certificate bill has been pronounced by several women's organizations in the province. His bill requires a pre-marriage certificate for the men. It is felt that the certificate should also be required of the woman entering marriage.

Four trucks left the Reid Hill district the other day for Whiplash, Montana, for the purchase of tractor fuel oil. Ross Walker, Tony Spanke, Albert Markert and Gordon McKay were the owners of the trucks. As the journey was expected to take several days complete camping equipment and food supplies were taken along. The trip is more or less of an experiment to determine whether the fuel, purchased at the well for $1.35 per barrel and charged half cent duty per gallon, can be brought to Vulcan at a saving over the Turner Valley price.

School teachers of both town and country schools returned from their various points of holidaying. Many attended the teachers' convention held in Calgary several days last week.

The Easter cantata "Redemption Song" was repeated at the evening services on Sunday evening at the United Church. The senior choir and assisting musicians again gave a creditable performance that received excellent comment from the congregation. Many who were unable to see the first performance were given an opportunity of witnessing one of the best cantatas presented in Vulcan.

Everything is quiet in town and active on the farm lands. Spring work time has come around on the calendar and as one drives through the district he sees at every farm evidence that another crop year has started. From north, south, east and west come reports of seeding operations. Isaac Jacobson started seeding last Tuesday and will have practically completed operations this week end. From reports he is the first to seed in this territory. Many started on Monday, while others are waiting till the first of the next week. Very little seeding has been done in the Reid Hill district. Weather conditions have been somewhat unfavorable the last few days, with high winds blowing, causing some soil drifting. On Saturday the first dust storm of the year hit town about 11 o'clock in the morning. Reserve moisture is good, the late wet snow storms helping in this respect.

ANGER AHEAD

Under this heading the Market News of Winnipeg presents an editorial which says:

The "Emergency Wheat Control Act" which has been introduced and is now being considered by the legislatures of the three Prairie Provinces is intended to provide the administrative means for carrying out Canada's part in the International Wheat Agreement.

That the Agreement will serve the purpose which was in the minds of its Canadian sponsors may be gravely doubted. There is even reason to believe that its terms are not now regarded as satisfactory by other major exporting countries. Current exports suggest for example, that at the forthcoming meeting of the World Wheat Advisory Committee to be held in Rome, the Argentine will seek to have its 1933-34 export quota increased. Moreover, the Wheat agreement has been in force for some eight months and certainly none of the beneficial results predicted have so far appeared.

But the merits of the Agreement do not enter into the question so far as the provincial legislation is concerned.

What Canada may, and should do, however, is to see that as little harm as possible is done in carrying out this contract.

Whatever method is followed, of the alternatives mentioned in the Bill, considerable expenditures and costs of carrying out of loss will be incurred, and these will fall upon the producer. There is no provision for bearing the cost of exercising the powers which the government takes to itself. The farmer is going to pay. That much is clear.

Other countries have provided some form of compensation for the farmer instead of placing the whole cost of adjustment on his shoulders. If production is limited, the farmer suffers whatever loss may result from a curtailed crop. If a wheat board functions and takes only a certain amount of wheat from the farmer the latter will be left to carry the excess. Should such excess be used for feed, it takes the place of coarse grains and if the excess is stored, there remains the risk of loss or deterioration. It must be remembered that there is little or no time for careful planning, although a huge amount of detail is involved in the proposals contained in the Wheat Control Act. It is a sign "Danger Ahead."

KEEPING CREDIT GOOD

Prime minister R. B. Bennett has never retreated from his belief that Canada's credit externally, must be maintained. He has systematically rejected any policies which would undermine the country's financial standing in the eyes of other countries.

It is true that the same ambition is characteristic of almost all Canadians. Individuals strain and sacrifice that they may keep credit good, municipalities economize in order to live within their means. So the Canadian leader in his determination, is only echoing the sentiments of all parts of his country.

He looks forward to an approaching time when new capital may be attracted for development. That new capital from outside sources would not be available, if Canada had defaulted debts. As it is, the credit of the country has been unimpaired through four hard years.

Whether Mr. Bennett could have relieved conditions somewhat, and still have met outside obligations, will not be argued if times improve. There are men who still believe that conditions would have been easier for the masses if he had followed the course of the pound sterling. He has however acted as a brake on any experiments, and it is quite possible that the new agricultural marketing may bring the relief to the masses that has been so long deferred.

The presence of Mr. Bennett and Mr. Stevens working side by side is an unceasing puzzle to the country. Mr. Bennett's actions are ultra-Conservative, Mr. Stevens are nothing short of radical. It is too soon to know whether or not any lasting results will be obtained from the Stevens' inquiries. They have exposed conditions, but the remedy can only come in enforcement of drastic legislation. The setting of minimum wage scales in industry is only a part of a great interwoven scheme, and will result only in the hiring of fewer people, until the demand for goods starts the wheels revolving. The whole root and foundation of better times rests in the betterment of agricultural prices. Then money will begin to move, minimum wages may be reasonably enforced and exploitation of labor can be curbed.

DEVIL FISH OF DEBIT

The Stettler Independent steps right out with a suggestion that has been glimmering vaguely in the minds of most people for some time. How far it might be acted upon, lies pretty much with the Alberta public.

The article refers to the tentacles of the devilfish of debt which has extended its grip to every man, woman and child in Alberta. It says this is a new, rich province manned with a high class of citizens but much of our debt difficulty is of our own creation. What is needed is an organized campaign for the people ending poverty which should have no place in such a province. The slogan of the campaign would be "Absolute self reliance" which means the self reliance of the pioneer to whom dependence on government was the last thing contemplated.

Members in the campaign will pledge themselves against any government assistance. No more grants or guarantees asked from Edmonton. No more speakers to attend meetings at the country's expense. If speakers are needed get some of the good folks of the district whose experience and success give them equal authority with importations. Only the schools will continue to receive grants. Old age pensions might be continued but the P. E. P. (people ending poverty) will conduct an educational campaign for insurance and annuities so that the next generation may be able to build up their own pensions for old age.

Under P.E.P. the people will handle their own unemployment, utilizing the waste of land, and instituting work that should be carried out, "work to the unemployed" should be the slogan of those in the community more comfortably off.

Another plank in the P.E.P. platform would be the regular and persistent payment of small debts. Big debts would have to be handled over a period of years, but the big creditors could set an example by compromising when circumstances justified it. It is the payment of small debts that keeps daily machinery moving.

These are a few starters in the People Ending Poverty idea. The Stettler Independent will no doubt go farther in urging release from government overhang. All the field men overlapping, the inspectors, the supervisors the circulars and government literature and pamphlets could easily be scrapped, without any loss to farm and social efficiency or public welfare.

The country is overlaid with a coating of inspectors, and trimmings of a similar nature, that mean expenditure without any justified relation.

POWER

In discussing Bank Act Revision and interlocking directorates in the Dominion of Canada Hansard of March first, produces the extent to which a few individuals control the industry of the country.

Mr. Garland stated that three men—Sir Herbert Holt, Sir Charles Gordon and W. A. Black, control one-fifth of the wealth of the Dominion.

Sir Herbert Holt is a director in these corporations: Canada Car, N. S. Steel and Coal, Dominion Coal, Canadian General Electric, Consolidated Mining and Smelting, Howard Smith Paper, B. C. Power, Montreal Power, Shaw Ingran Power, Royal Bank, Ogilvie Flour Mills, Simpson's Ltd., Dominion Textiles, Canadian Pacific Railway, Imperial Life, Sun Life, Canada Cement, Bank of Montreal.

Sir Charles Gordon's name is on the directorate of the following companies: Bank of Montreal, Ogilvie Flour Mills, Dominion Rubber Co., Dominion Textiles, C.P.R., Dominion Glass, Dominion Steel and Coal, N.S. Steel and Coal, Dominion Coal, St. Lawrence Corporation, Montreal Power.

W. A. Black is director in the following corporations: Consolidated Mining and Smelting, Abitibi Pulp and paper, Bank of Montreal, Royal Bank of Canada, Ogilvie Flour Mills, Dominion Textiles, Canadian Cottons.

Mr. Coote, Mr. Woodsworth, Mr. Garland and others speaking on Bank Act Revision deprecated the wisdom of permitting financial power to centre in the hands of a few men.

Mr. Garland in his address to the House quoted the encyclical letter of Pope Pius which said, "The accumulation of Power, the characteristic note of the modern economic order, is a natural result of limitless free competition which permits the survival only of those who fight most relentlessly. Unbridled ambition for domination has succeeded the desire for gain; the whole economic life has become hard, cruel and relentless. Certain forms of property must be reserved to the state, since they carry with them an opportunity of domination too great to be left to private individuals without injury to the community at large."

Mr. Garland submitted that private control of credit gives much too great an opportunity to be left to private individuals.

KEEPING FAITH

Following the convention of war veterans at Ottawa, certain figures have been published showing that Canada is carrying a considerable load of taxation in order that her debt to returned men may be paid, insofar as such a debt can ever be paid.

Canada's treatment of her soldiers is said to compare favorably with that of any other country engaged in the great war.

Since 1916, Canada has paid out in pensions over $500,000,000—practically one-fourth of the entire national debt. She is paying out pensions to day at the rate of $40,000,000 a year. More than $3,000,000 every month. In 1918, the number of those receiving pensions was 25,000. Five years later, in 1923, the number had grown to 63,000. Today it is over 90,000. Where in 1918, when the war closed, the cost of pensions in the treasury was a little over $7,000,000, it has grown in 1933 to over $40,000,000. More than 240,000 people in Canada—soldiers and dependents of soldiers are helped by these pensions.

"And pensions are not the only aid which Canada renders exservice men. War veterans are eligible for Old Age Pensions at the age of 60, instead of 70, as in the case of non-veterans; and old age pensions may be given to any veteran who is permanently unemployable. In addition, there is Returned Soldiers' Insurance, under which more than 30,000 veterans have obtained State Insurance totalling more than $70,000,000; there is the Soldier Settlement scheme; the Veterans' Bureau; other agencies as well. What they mean, all told, is that Canada, in sincere endeavor to keep faith with veterans, spends something like $50,000,000 a year, or a million dollars a week."

TRIBUTE TO WEEKLIES

The other day we read that a California newspaper asked many prominent state, civic and industrial officials of that state to express their opinions as to the worthwhileness, or otherwise, of the small town paper of today. It was curiosity to know what such men thought of the rural weekly that led to this survey. So many interesting replies were received—all of them favorable—that the story was released by the United Press. Here are some of them: "The Small town newspaper is the most powerful influence in public life today—Instead of losing prestige, it is steadily gaining. The home town editor is a quite important individual in his community. The country newspaper is a tremendous factor in developing business. It is one of the most effective medium of advertising to be found anywhere." Among those quoted was the head of the Bank of America, who stated: "Perhaps I can best answer you by stating that the Bank of America relies upon 320 newspapers in this state, of which, of course, the majority are in small towns, to carry its message to the people of California. Our advertising is in the newspapers week in and week out, a policy which we have pursued for over seventeen years. During the first seven months of 1932, when conditions were at their worst and many other advertisers were curtailing their expenditures, our appropriation was increased. We are more than satisfied with the results, both for ourselves and for California." —Listowel Banner.

R. B. Bennett Presents Canada's Obligations

A short time ago Prime Minister R. B. Bennett explained to the House of Commons, Canada's financial position, in relation to interest reduction and the consolidation of debts. This speech was given verbatim in the Calgary Herald of March 31, and the Prime Minister's determination to keep the credit of Canada intact is clearly set forth. The speech is an able presentation of Canada's financial position, and states clearly why the Prime Minister takes the position which he has done, in regard to debt consolidation. It deserves the attention of all readers and extracts are given herewith.

Credit Salvation

We have been responsible for the effort which has been made to maintain the financial integrity of Canada.

I wonder if there is an honorable member familiar with business who does not know that the salvation of the people depends upon the credit which is maintained for them. How are we to secure the very things which we need in this new country if we destroy our character? Our character is our credit and our credit is our character.

Debt Conversion

We who are responsible to the people of Canada found that Canada had a debt of two and a half billions, most of it incurred in a great war, carrying rates of interest as high as 5 1-2 per cent. One of the first things we did was to convert part of the debt, in spite of assurances that it could not be done. We did convert part of the debt from 5 1-2s to 4 1-2s, and altogether including later conversions, there have been $800,000,000 of debt converted into lower rate of interest.

Lessening Interest Burden

Recently I spent sometime with representatives of all the mortgage lending associations of Canada. I found that one of them has borrowed 30 million dollars from various investors throughout the world and has issued receipts carrying a 5 per cent rate of interest. That money comes to Canada and is loaned to farmers and merchants and so on, on first mortgages at 6, 7, and in some instances 8 per cent. I found that one of the insurance companies lending to western Canada after having written off substantial sums had received as an average on its investments in the west 4.87 per cent net payment.

Life insurance is one of the strongest safe guards of great numbers of our people. It is well known that life insurance would not last overnight if there were no such thing as interest. It is predicted upon interest being paid, and upon the ability to lend certain sums of money, taken as premiums at interest. This is done so that the value of the fund thus accumulated will, at the expiration of a certain date, produce sufficient to pay the contract under the policy.

Securities World Wide

If our securities were lodged here, the situation would be simple, but they are scattered in every part of the world. I fancy there is hardly an American state without people who hold Canadian securities, municipal, provincial or federal. Some of these are payable in Canada, some in New York and some in London. I am convinced that it would be impossible to consolidate municipal, provincial and federal. One reason is that B.C. for instance, has a large percentage of its debt payable in London. Alberta's debt is substantially payable in U. S. A. To consolidate the debts of the provinces would involve either consent on the part of all who hold securities in Britain, U. S. A., Canada and other parts of the world, or repudiation by provincial legislatures of obligations created. Can we contemplate the latter, or enforce the former?

Can Canada Default

Can this Dominion of Canada, a young country seeking capital, on the threshold of greater development than it has hitherto had, maintain its position among the nations of the world if we now either default or repudiate. Those are the alternatives and we might as well face the situation frankly. To default would be something that would cause every man, woman and child in this country capable of thinking, great food for thought. Canada has not been built up by men and women who are anxious to repudiate the obligations created by themselves or their fathers.

In a world of suspicion, of doubt and unrest; whatever else may be said, at the moment this country enjoys the reputation of having met its obligations in the terms of its contracts. We have the reputation of having maintained our financial integrity during all the stress and strain through which we have passed.

Railway Finance

Before we can even discuss conversion consider our railway problem. There can be no conversion of national obligations so long as we have to provide a million and a quarter dollars per week for railway deficit.

The entire obligations of the Canadian National for last year necessitate the taxpayers of this country finding $68,000,000 or something over a million and a quarter a week.

There is no half-way house. There can be no caring for the poor, no caring for our population unless our reputation is maintained so that we may secure additional funds for the development of this country. And it is for the purpose of enabling us to deal with the problems of the future that we have been so much concerned about the maintenance of our credit. So long as that million and a quarter a week stands as an obligation for the Canadian people to meet, I believe, sir, that the problem of conversion is almost, if not wholly, insuperable.

Raise Farm Prices

Because a farmer has to produce 2 bushels of wheat to pay a debt which he was able to meet with one bushel when he incurred it, is not a reason for repudiating debts. It is reason for trying to put the farmer into position where he will get better prices.

All debts payable within any term are liable to the difficulty of changes. No man knows when he promises to pay $1000 three years from now, how commodity prices may vary. I recall debts contracted in Western Canada when wheat was $1.25, being paid off on $3.00 wheat. There have been instances in our history when the plus value of commodities grew almost unrecognizably.

Interest is no new thing, though it is not for me to say it is wise. But the magnificent structure of life insurance could not have been built up without it.

Weekly Letter by Dr. Stanley, M.P.

My endeavor is simply to collect a few facts of general interest, or a few incidents which will illustrate life at Ottawa. I am not relying on these letters to establish any political reputation; they are in fact, just little spasms of neighbourliness. Does it not occur to you that even a hardened politician may become homesick too?

The big noise continues in the Banking Committee. There are only 22 lawyers on the Committee and these 22 lawyers occupied its last full session debating whether the Committee should hire another outside lawyer at about $200. per day to help cross-examine Mr. E. W. Beatty, Sir Herbert Holt, J. H. Gundy, and still they have not decided.

I have attempted to suggest that we have about 20 too many lawyers already, if we expect to get anywhere this summer. Mr. Sam Jacobs, one of our witty members stated, that in trying to solve the problem he found himself in a position similar to the prisoner who when asked the usual question "guilty or not guilty?" replied: "How can I tell until I hear the evidence?" Personally I am inclined to agree with the chairman, a skilful lawyer himself, when he contends that the Committee will probably get further by doing its own job in its own way.

Butter

That very slippery question of butter, upon which the Liberals skidded out of power in 1930 and which many acrimonious disputes between the major parties, during the intervening years, has rendered fairly rancid, threatens to take on a freshness in political importance. It will be remembered that in 1929, 40 million lbs were imported from New Zealand into Canada. The Bennett government completed a new treaty with that country and also made changes in duties whereby butter shipped direct from New Zealand was subjected to a duty of 5 cents per pound; butter shipped from the other parts of the British Empire to 8 cents per pound. Under the treaty, New Zealand cannot successfully continue to ship butter direct to Canada without Canada's consent, because the latter is certain to invoke Sec. 4 of the treaty which will prevent future shipments. However, the price of butter in Canada is now about twice the price of similar butter on the London Market, but New Zealand can get beneath the treaty by shipping to London first, then trans-shipping to Halifax and after paying freight and 8 cents per pound duty, can still undersell the Canadian producer. Recently she thus sent over about 200,000 lbs. It was being held in storage and under a gentleman's agreement between the two countries, it is to be gradually absorbed by the Canadian market. It constitutes about one day's butter consumption in Canada.

Many political sky-gazers prophesy that whereas it took 40 million pounds of New Zealand butter to put the skids under the King government less than one-tenth of that amount would provide a similar thrill for the Bennett government. Thereby hangs a tale. It is a safe wager that some quota legislation will be introduced forthwith. The government has had thrills enough during the past three years.

HOCKEY BROADCAST NEEDS BIG STAFF

Foster Hewitts Play by Play Stories of Big League Stuff Takes Staff of Over Two Hundred.

Big league hockey by radio has become a national pastime. Between Charlottetown and Victoria and here and there from the Arctic to the Gulf of Mexico, Foster Hewitt's weekly audience is numbered conservatively at a million.

According to one of the engineers associated with the hockey broadcasts each program requires 25,000 miles of copper wire for its transmission to stations on the network, and the army of personnel employed on each broadcast reaches the astonishing total of 232. This group is made up of full-time men employed as announcers, musicians, production men, production engineers, line companies' engineers, station engineers and station announcers.

The heart of the big hook up is in the broadcasting gondola above the ice of the Maple Leaf Gardens in Toronto. It is from here that Foster Hewitt, conceded to be the best sports announcer on the continent, sends his accounts of the contests pulsing over the ether.

LOOKING at the NEWS

Wilkes wanted to go but that was Wilkes own fault as well as theirs. Ramsey McDonald and J. S. Woods-worth have experienced the same difficulty as Wilkes, but it is better to fight it than do what Danton did at the time of the French revolution. When he was asked to curb the excesses of the Parisian mobs, he said "I am their leader and I must follow them."

It was a wise provision of the waterways treaty that it should not be submitted to the parliament of Canada until after it was ratified by the U.S. Senate. Whoever inserted that provision knew his U.S. Senate.

Mr. Roosevelt did his best to carry the treaty negotiated by his Republican predecessor and approved by himself, but he failed. He will now try to carry through an amended treaty a more difficult task, for the treaty as amended must have the sanction of the Canadian government and also the approval of a certain number of Republican Senators, who may not be so willing to support it as they were willing to support the one negotiated by Mr. Hoover.

CONTRACT BRIDGE BY ONE WHO KNOWS

An exchange furnishes the following bright thoughts on bridge.

Bridge is a game with two decks of cards, four ash trays, a big plate of sandwiches, two different score cards to allow for argument, a pot of coffee and special smoke producing cigarettes and pipes.

The participants are four players who always admit the opponents played the hand perfectly, and that it was their own poor play that made the "game bid" possible. The slogan used in business, "the customer is always right," is really a revised version of the bridge slogan "my partner is always right."

It is a game that engenders the most friendly feeling, and the frequent resort to harsh names by players toward their partners, is really only in fun.

Bidding is done by several systems, and should the bid not turn out to the satisfaction of the person making it, the expert whose system he is using is notified and he changes the system immediately. An almost infallible rule has been for the first bidder to remark, "well I really don't know what to do." If this is followed by a little giggle, the partner bids three no trump—otherwise it is a two no trump bid.

To rub the knee while concentrating on playing a hand means one of two things—"Don't worry partner, I have all the rest of the tricks" or "We will be lucky if we don't go down more than two thousand."

The fair sex are the best bridge players, because they concentrate on the game, while the male of the species is so apt to stop in the middle of it and remark upon his partner's new suit, or Mr. Bennett's latest plan to aid the farmers of the West.

Before leaving home to play tournament games, players receive a written pass from the other half of the head of the household, permitting them to be out until 3 a.m. and an extension to this may be obtained by phoning home and getting the other half out of bed, when further leave of absence is cheerfully granted. This pass is pinned to coat or dress while the game is in progress so that the other players may know that there is no hurry in bidding or playing the hand.

Cry Havoc a Text Book

Few question the wisdom of this expenditure.

Racial Pride Affronted

And now it appears that reasonable doubt may be harbored of the bonafides of the broadcast that the radio pours into our gullible ears.

From the Pictou Advocate it is learned that righteous indignation disturbs the denizens of Cape Breton, who as all the world knows, are of pure and proud Hielan' breed. The broadcasting station at Sydney, which by the way, is operated by a son of Israel, has been interpreting Cape Breton to the outside world in broad Lowland Scotch dialect, than which nothing could be more offensive and humiliating to a Cape Breton Hielander.

Small Defense Tax

Complaints are sometimes heard against militia expenditures. The facts are that Canada is taxed less for defense purposes than any other country in the world and much less than other parts of the Empire. In the past four years estimates of the National Defense Department have been cut from $21,000,000 to $13,000,000. People who object to such an expenditure never stop to think what would happen to this country if we were cut off from the empire.—The Orillia Packet.
